

Survey to Chief APOs

Issue: Reentry Coordinator for Problem Solving Court

Question: (from Cambria County)

Is there any county that has a reentry coordinator for specialty courts (i.e drug court, vet court, mental health court)?

Allegheny County

Allegheny County has a problem-solving court coordinator who oversees our seven problem solving courts. Each of the seven also have individual probation supervisors and dedicated POs within the unit.

The Allegheny County Jail has a reentry unit/coordinator, and they work closely with our Adult Probation Reentry Unit that is comprised of a supervisor and five POs.

Berks County

Does not

Cumberland County

Cumberland County has a staff member that serves as our reentry coordinator. She attends to clients in the specialty courts as well as any other client under supervision. She also serves on the executive committee of the county reentry coalition. As a reentrant herself, she provides excellent insight.

Jefferson County

Does not

Lancaster County

We have the Lancaster County Re-entry Coalition that serves all returning citizens. It is not specific to our three treatment Courts (Drug, Mental Health, Veterans).

Lebanon County

County CJAB has a re-entry position that is part-time and has been vacant for at least three years, so I will go with NO. This position would not be specific to our treatment courts if it were filled.

Westmoreland County

Does not have a Reentry Coordinator for specialty courts.
